In 2022, I graduated from the Kaunas University of Technology, internet information systems and database programming study program.

I would like to highlight that I am a motivated employee who tries to complete tasks with quality and on time. While studying at the university, I learned to work in a team.

Curiosity, creativity and punctuality are qualities that help me overcome tasks.

I am able to analyze and understand the necessary project needs, determine and specify system and user requirements, test and implement software components.
